DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
  - I. Claims 1-4 are drawn to an error control method, classified in class 370, subclass 391.2.
  - II. Claims 5-8 are drawn to A MAC frame designing method for transferring resource allocation information in a wireless communication system, classified in class 370, subclass 328.
  - III. Claims 9-14 are drawn to A registration method and medium, classified in class 370, subclass 328.

2. Inventions I and II are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because invention I has an error control method, using a control connection between a receiver and a transmitter. The subcombination has separate utility such as a MAC frame designing method for transferring resource allocation information from an access point to a plurality of terminals in a wireless communication system.

Inventions I and III are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because invention I an error control method, using a control connection between a receiver and a transmitter. The subcombination has separate utility such as a registration method and medium for registering a terminal with an access point using a medium access control frame in a wireless communication system.

Inventions II and III are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because invention II has as a MAC frame designing method for transferring resource allocation information from an access point to a plurality of terminals in a wireless communication system. The subcombination has separate utility such as a registration method and medium for registering a terminal with an access point using a medium access control frame in a wireless communication system.
